VICKY THERESE DAVIS

The life of Vicky Therese Davis has been one of world travel. Born and raised in Chicago, Illinois, she began studying the international jewelry industry while on business trips with her mother. These experiences offered her corporate skills at a very young age. She applies them while consulting those who come to her for business and personal advice.

Vicky was educated at the University of Illinois at Chicago where she studied Finance. It was a field she thought was sensible enough for a successful career, or at least would prove useful in everyday life management. After completing her education, Vicky was briefly employed in the financial arena. She took her exit after experiencing the disappointment working for others gave her. She also noticed a similar disenchantment among her peers and realized this was not the way she viewed spending the rest of her life. Feeling that there had to be an alternative, Vicky founded Indulgence Jewelry Corp. calling on the contacts she cultivated over the years. She has been successfully growing her business and plans to continue her efforts internationally.

Perhaps part of the key to her success lies in Vicky's knowledge of how to work through adversity and turn it into something positive. Because of the situations that have befallen her, she has become an effective public speaker who has successfully been coaching change in her peers and colleagues for years. Vicky now resides in Miami Beach, Florida, and she has no pets.

WILLIAM R. PATTERSON

William Patterson was reared in a family of entrepreneurs, and from his youth, trained in all aspects of business. Capitalizing on the bounty of investment opportunities of the late 90's, he co-founded the holding company, The Warcoffer Capital Group, LLC. By leveraging years of knowledge and experience as a sales professional, entrepreneur, and investor, Will is able to offer insights on the psychology of leadership and wealth acquisition. He is a prolific speaker and an expert on harnessing human potential and organizational development. Through his teachings of personal empowerment, he has captured the attention of a global audience.

Will was trained as an electrical engineer at Howard University. However, a growing dissatisfaction with formal education and its immediate relevance to the real world compelled him to leave scholarship to create a niche in the finance industry. Armed with the knowledge of mentors and solid investments to his credit, Will began launching businesses. As a leader with resolute vision, he cringed at the thought of anything besides owning his own company. Over the years, he has cultivated a background in program management and strategic planning. Having seen firsthand the ethical and financial decisions that led to triumphs and failures of core management teams, he is able to use this knowledge to guide others to success.

Will has traveled extensively and now lives in Washington, DC where he consults and teaches seminars on personal and business motivation. His free time is spent mentoring and collecting art.

D. MARQUES PATTON

D. Marques Patton has led a life of entrepreneurship. Before the age of ten he had a business selling toys on his school bus. In later years he co-founded several companies, including The Warcoffer Capital Group, LLC. Having a desire to succeed, and no fear of rejection, he cultivated several relationships that aligned him with notable business executives, politicians, and professional athletes. His results-oriented approach and signature style are what have distinguished him from his colleagues in the field of business motivation.

After attending the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Marques negotiated a strategic alliance with a brokerage firm in Chicago's financial district. There, he became a registered representative of the National Association of Securities Dealers. As an Options Principal, Marques was responsible for the actions of his brokerage team who hedged the risks associated with their accounts. The methods he suggests come from hard-won lessons taught in real life business and personal scenarios. Marques understands how to succeed when you only have the shirt on your back, because at one point he had to.

When he is not traveling abroad, Marques spends his time in Miami Beach where he consults and gives seminars to those seeking positive change. He speaks Spanish, plays chess, and practices Gracie Jiu-Jitsu.
